KONA SKATEPARK, Jacksonville, Florida, hosted one of the biggest skateboard contests in the Southern states. Pulled together by park owner, BILL YATES, the three day event drew about 130 skaters from four states - Florida, North Carolina, Georgia, and Texas. Such well established teams as Bruce Walker and Brewer were drawn to take part.

Bill Yates assembled a strong crew of contest workers: HENRY HESTER, JOHN HUTSON, MIKE WILLIAMS, and DI DOOTSON were sent through contact with the I.S.A.; Gordon and Smith sent STACEY PERALTA, RUSS GOSNELL, and PAUL HOFFMAN; the Hobie team was represented by BOB SKOLDBERG, SKITCH HITCHCOCK, MIKE WEED, and STEVE SHIPP. The California pros were enough of an attraction but the Southeast has its own stars.

Skaters like JIMMY PLUMER, a local bowl riding powerhouse, is one well remembered. CHARLIE GONZALES pulled a punch in the Pro Challenge Slalom Race that beat out Hester, Hutson, and the rest - but more about the Pro Challenges later. MITCH KAUFMAN knocked 'em dead as he was the first to make an "elevator drop" off Kona's eight foot verticle monolith. The weekend had many such highlights.

The production was laid out to give the most contestants a well paced weekend. Trials for the freestyle, speed, and slalom events were held simultaneously throughout Saturday. It was made all that easier by handling registration on-site from 3 to 9 PM the night before. Freestylers performed their 1½ minute routine by age divisions. The slalom and speed runs were set up differently. With heat sheets arranged efficiently, racers could come up, state their name and age, and take their run whenever they wanted - thus eliminating contestants having to be at two events at one time, or being tired. Florida, in September, is hot and muggy. It's not hard to work up to a fatiguing sweat. Hurricane Anita, in the Carribean, spewed a lot of rain over Jacksonville way. The trials had to be called off for the middle of the day. But by 3 PM, all events were under way with no further weather problems... other than the basic heat and humidity.

Semi-finals for all three events were held on Sunday. With so much of the field eliminated the day before, contestants and officials got a leisurely start at Noon. Practice was open at 9 AM for those so enthusiastically inclined. After a contestant meeting at Noon, the Semi's were under way by 12:30.

Local TV visited in the afternoon to shoot for the evening's news. HUCK ANDRESS, of the G & S team, jumped a car for cameras. That evening's news did, indeed, cover the fund raising event which encouraged spectators to attend. As did the appearance of Bill Yates and Di Dootson on Florida's Jerry Lewis Muscular Dystrophy telethon at 11:15 PM. The pair got about 30 seconds to explain the contest, plus I.S.A., Kona & Carlsbad Skateparks, G&S, Hobie, and present the Telethon with a facsimile check of the monies earned by the contest. Numerous comments from people at the contest the following day were an indication that the Telethon was well watched.

Monday was fun. With all the entries narrowed down to the top contestants each event ran its finals one at a time - to give each center stage. BOB SKOLDBERG on the mike kept the crowd informed and enthused. A demo by local catamiransists, the G&S team, and the Hobie team were held in between the events!

Meanwhile, a bowl riding challenge had come up. The local boys wanted to compete against the visiting Californians who were not eligible to enter the East Coast event. The challenge was immediately met. Each pro would put up $25. The winner would get 25% of the purse and Muscular Dystrophy would get the rest. The sign up began! Later a Pro Challenge Slalom race was opened. These two events would be held after the freestyle finals.

It was beginning to get dark as the Pro Slalom Challengers got a few minutes practice. With a field of 8, the winner would get two runs to win the $50 prize. CHARLEY GONZALES, a long aspiring skater riding for Brewer, fairly flew down Kona's hairy snake run to get the fastest time of the day: 17.390.

The Pro Bowl Challenge started up as the clouds of another brewing hurricane threatened. With six entries each getting their 3 minutes to work the "monolith bowl" it wouldn't take long for each to get his run in. RUSS GOSNELL had been skating during the whole weekend. People were getting nonchalant about his powerful, controlled freestyle-type tricks in the bowl and on the verticle. But... he hadn't shown them everything. His frontside, out of the pool, railgrab, flyaway happened almost too fast to see. And as if that weren't enough, on his next run he came straight down the wall, up and over the safety netting, about 4½ feet, and over the spectators to a standing position holding his board. Like a perfect gymnast's dismount: feet together, no loss of balance, poised, confident. The crowd went crazy!

And on the day went: top competitors in each field working out for first place against a challeng in field. The quality of skating was good, spirit and comraderie were high, spectators were entertained; and, through it all... passing the hat for Muscular Dystrophy. Admission, concession stand earnings, 25% of the Challenge entries, raffle ticket sales, and donations all went to Muscular Dystrophy.

The awards ceremony was more like a convention for members of a "Mutual Admiration Society". A few speeches ("yea Florida", "yea California", "yea for 7-Eleven, Marvin Starke", "yea to Bill Yates for doing it"), and awards and trophies were given and received with cheers, handshakes, and a few kisses. When the last skaters left, the place continued to glow for days. And with every phone call and letter of appreciation that followed, the Kona Skatepark shimmers a little brighter in the Florida sunshine.

PAUL ENGH, pro slalom racer, has got himself to Germany. Realizing the budding potential in Europe he booked himself a flight that left early August.

Through Russ Howell, Paul is making contact with the main industry organization. Comprised of the four main skate board companies (Go-Sport, California Products, Pfander-Sport, and Sport Aktion) this organization is conducting competitions throughout Germany.

It is at these sites that Paul will prove his California-grown expertise while benefiting from the disciplined coaching available there.

The NSR is expecting to "Hear From" Paul as he sends articles back to be included in future issues.

LET'S HEAR FROM . . . COLORADO

By Peter Camann

The Dillon/Silverthorne Pro-Am Skateboard Championship was the last scheduled stop on Another Roadside Attraction's Colorado '77 Summer Tour. The Tour was the first of its kind ever in the country, and boasted the most notable Professional skaters in the World. Starting in Boulder, May 14th, the circuit made every planned date on schedule, culminating in Dillon and Silverthorne three months later for the biggest and best competition this summer.

The Tour had its stars, some were regulars and others there only occasionally. The Tour stars who became regulars started in Boulder. Tommy Ryan of Team Turner Summerski/Kryptonics, Michael Williams of Team Lightning Bolt/HPG Gullwing and Bobby Piercy of Team Lightning Bolg/Kryptonics showed up to race. It was mutually agreed, at the time, between the racers and organizers that the above Pros' point finish would not count in the season standings; reason being this was the only competition they would probably participate in.

One race later, the same Professionals booked into Vail for their second look at Another Roadside Attraction. Vail Merchants Pro-Am was the site of something new; more Pros and outstanding amateurs arrived from California, New Mexico and Texas. The word was out, the Colorado circuit was hot!

The Vail Pro-Am was the first Roadside Attraction for Team Santa Cruz, California and John Hutson. John won the Downhill and Dual Slalom that weekend and began a string of consecutive victories that would not be broken until the fifth stop (on the Tour). A superlative effort only by Tommy Ryan in Breckenridge would defeat J. Hutson in the finals of the Dual Slalom, breaking the Champion's string at five.

Breckenridge '77 Pro-Am marked some changes for the Pros. Randy Smith of Team Turner Summerski/Kryptonics began to show the spirit and dedication Champions possess, which ultimately led to his ranking as the No. 1 Colorado Professional racer. R. Smith completed the season with a solid fourth place overall, behind the venerables Hutson, Williams and Ryan.

Brent Kosick of Boulder's Team E. H. Wallboard, displayed the consistency he would need to become second leading Colorado Pro, earning an invitation, along with R. Smith, to the California Free Former Professional Championships at Long Beach. Kosick is a young racer who desires a future in skateboarding as a Professional.

The competition began in Dillon on Friday, August 19th with the Cross Country race. A dozen Pros started on Main Street enmass, racing the 3/4 mile endurance course at 9400' elevation. A few pileups and minutes later, John Hutson added his first victory of the weekend to his record. Russ Howell of Team Power Paw finished second, Michael Williams third and R. Smith fourth.

The Toe Tap Dash was the second race of the competition. The 40 yard dash was won by Russ Howell, followed by Michael Williams and Henry Hester.

The following day, Saturday, began with a Downhill event in neighboring Silverthorne town. the 1/2 mile course was hempered by strong, uphill winds. Arlan Moore, ski racer and coach, and skateboard designer from Vail, recorded the fastest time in the first heat, which also stood as the best for the day. This gave him the lead until John Hutson flashed across the finish line in his second run, grabbing the lead over all. When it was over, Hutson had his second victory of the weekend, clinching the title as the No. 1 Professional. Brent Kosick, riding 70 mm red Kryptonics slipped ahead of Moore in his final run, capturing second place. Arlan Moore of Team MooreBoards took third and John Krisik of Team Santa Cruz took fourth.

COLORADO CON'T

Freestyle/Ballet was run that afternoon. The best Professional Freestylers gathered to compete in the event that clearly had the most talented performers yet this season. Russ Howell of Long Beach, California was crowned the winner. Almost from the beginning of his routine, Russell worked his repertoire with the magic and finesse of a virtuoso, getting constant ovations from the electrified audience. This man is truly a Champion.

Tony Jetton of Team Magnum, California, displayed a definite dexterity and knowledge of the art that earned him a second to Howell. This young man is very much a Professional and future champion.

Robbie Baker of Team Concrete Curl, Denver, dazzled spectators with his usual continuity, earning a well deserved third. Robbie is a Pro for the new Concrete Curl, Denver, Colorado's first skateboard park. There is more to come on R. Baker because of his love to perform in and out of competition.

Sunday dawned, finally, and the Roadside crew was back early in Dillon, setting the stage for the final event of the Tour. Main Street was cordoned off, for half of it today would be the site of the Dual Slalom. People lined the street, curious about this sport that races skateboards. The action began with the competition of all the amateur classes running before the Pros. There are six of these divisions in the Tour. Some say there needs to be more age and sex classifications. In due time, though, skateboard parks will be able to handle all skaters of racing in competent, organized programs. Stay with what there is, the best is still to come.

The amateur classes having finished, the Pros were now ready to race. After some minutes to warm up and fine tune, qualifying began. The best Pros were vying for the No. 1 seed. Greg Taie, Orange, Calif. of Team Gordon & Smith qualified No. 1. John Hutson earned the No. 2 seed, only .006 seconds behind Taie. Sixteen Pros were seeded in the single elimination, head to head bracket. The competition was tough, and only the toughest 4 would make it to the semi-finals. Those racers were Greg Taie, Primo Sports' (Boulder) Jim Whalen, Santa Cruz' John Hutson and Turner Summerski's Tommy Ryan.

Greg Taie beat Jim Whalen, but had to work very hard to do it. Whalen is strong physically and possesses good racing sense; he only needs experience to bring his consistency. John Hutson bested Tommy Ryan twice, but not with ease. The two have met in the semis and finals against each other for most of this season. This time, it was advantage Mr. Hutson.

The final round belonged to Taie and Hutson. The consolation round now pitted Whalen versus Ryan. In their first race, Whalen cleaned the faltering Ryan. There is no time to commit a mistake in short, speed slalom courses; Tommy came out at the start not well centered. The result was to Whalen's advantage. The second race went the opposite way. Tommy needed better than .796 seconds to overtake his opponent. He made up most of the difference but fell short of it in the total giving Jim Whalen third place points and money.

The first race of the final round between Hutson and young Taie was furious. A very close finish revealed Greg Taie the faster time by .104 seconds. Hutson was at the disadvantage, but a whisper would tell John he has been here before. Back to the start, switching courses (under the dual race format), for the last race. Hutson and Taie stood in anticipation on the start for the count from Chief of Start, Ken Emrick. Here's the count! The gates flash open and both racers spring from the ramps. The racer's look even, and all of a sudden, the Pro from Santa Cruz totally lets go, gaining momentum and distance. John Hutson wins! He wins by a margin more than enough to secure the victory. John Hutson beat Greg Taie today, but the young professional was so good today that he will be back again.

The story goes on. It was written this summer by an outstanding athlete named John Hutson. The Number 1 Professional on Another Roadside Attraction's summer racing circuit. He won more points, more money, more races, more back to back competitions, and more consecutive races than any Pro this season. Congratulations, John Hutson! We look forward to another season of racing in Colorado and the rest of this big country.

Ever wonder why a wrist breaks so often from skateboarding? the NSR came across this excellent photo showing what happens. It's easy!

TAKE: one eager skater weighing about 100 lbs, a bank or vertical surface, about 10 m.p.h. translating to 2,000 lbs of pressure on impact, and the eight tiny bones built to rotate your hand.

GIVEN: a wrong move, a broken truck, a collapsing ramp, loss of balance.

RESPONSE: the body's first defense is to break the fall (good choice of words) by putting your hand out.

RESULT: with 2,000 lbs of pressure on those eight little bones not built for the job the energy doesn't flow anywhere! It stops on those poor little bones.

Where, oh where are the improved wrist guards we need? The rider here anticipated his fall and wore a wrist guard + his wrist did not break in this fall.

Alabama

We have really been having some red-hot skateboarding down here as of late. Due to the lack of bowls and empty pools we here in this specific part of South Alabama have turned out priorities and energy toward downhill, slalom, and freestyle. There are some really steep, fast, clean black asphalt hills down here. Every weekend we get together for some very spirited racing. Head-to-head slalom usually draws the most entries and we are including the top four finishers in our last three races. Larry White and his younger brother, Steve, have dominated the races since the beginning but third and fourth places are always up for grabs.

By the High Rollers Skate Cult

Just thought we'd send a few words to the "Review". Since there is no formal organizations around this area we created our own "High Rollers Skate Cult". The Rollers consist of about a dozen locals, keeping the membership limited. Don't get me wrong, there are girls in the Rollers too. Since we accept very few members, we're a very tight group. We get into banks, pools, ramps, and the nearest park, "Concrete Surf" - an hour and forty-five minute drive away.

The Rollers recently (Aug. 26) had a non-publicized visit from Mike (Scarecrow) Williams. Mike is a fantastic person as well as skater. He worked out with us for about four hours one night; man, can that dude gyrate those cones! The next morning we took him to a pool; he knows his stuff. We really learned a lot from his expert advice.

Another Roller and I work at a distributorship so we keep up with the contest results that you publish. We'll send the results of the North Alabama contest on October 1. Until then, skate safe everyone!

By the Cities of Campbell and Saratoga, California

Our contest was co-sponsored by the Cities of Campbell and the City of Saratoga Community Services Department. We had three events: slalom, freestyle, and gyrating ramp events. Our objective was to have a well organized contest. Time schedules were displayed telling contestants and spectators exactly what age group competed at what time. We handed out information to contestants, as well as spectators, regarding official rules and judging of all three events. In other words, we wanted an amateur contest in which everyone knew what was happening at all times. Much to our expectation, we accomplished our goals.

Following are the results of the contest:

The skate board political situation here is very thick. The organization in control is called the DDS (German Skateboard Association), run by Lullu Magnus. They are trying to split into two or three organizations and I have been trying to get them to go with one instead of splintering off.

There is a group of kids here in Munich that are skate stoked to the max! They train EVERY day for five to six hours in high jump, freestyle, and slalom. They are coached by Lullu Magnus. The kids here have some excellent freestyle routines with innovative new tricks. The slalom racing here is very important. I have been training with these guys and I think in one year they will be threats in the Akron race. The difference in these guys is the strict discipline they employ in their training which will be the downfall of the California racer-freestylist.

LAWS: The City of San Luis Obispo has made it illegal to skate on sidewalks or streets. There are warnings to younger skaters; citations to older ones.

CROSS COUNTRY SKATE TRIP: A team of four Central Coast skaters are planning to break the world record of 31 days to cross the nation via skateboard. It took Mike Filben, Jeff French, and Jack Smith that long last year. This year's team is Paul Dunn, Dave Arend, Jerry Van Herringen and Jack Smith. They have already begun plans . . . and training.

They plan to use the same route as Smith's previous team. The departure date is set for mid-June, 1978 with an estimated completion to be 25 to 28 days later. The team is looking for sponsors; references on the team are available.

RAHWAY SKATEBOARDERS SHOW SPORTS POTENTIAL

By Paul Geyer, AESA President

The continued growth and popularity of skateboarding in the eastern United States has gotten a boost through the fine skating efforts of Rahway, N.J. youths in recent exhibitions and contests.

In July and August, local youngsters have proven themselves to be among the best in the area and await a truly regional contest to match skills with the best in the country. Scott Downey, who recently defeated the east coast champion, will soon turn 18 and is an outstanding freestyle and high jump specialist. His brothers Todd and Brett are also high quality skateboarders who help make the activity a family affair and from whom we should hear much in the future.

Also on the squad, is Pete Meredith, a tough man in freestyle and slalom. Scott Holt, the teams ariel and gorilla grip specialist helps round out the team as does Timmy Avalos, a young prospect with outstanding potential.

Currently, the boys are skating for Grog's Surf Palace in Seaside Heights and have recently made outstanding showings in four of the states six existing parks at Oakhurst, Asbury Park, Vineland, and Ocean City.

The America East Skateparks Association is interested in hearing from talented eastern skaters and being notified of any future competitions in the east. AESA can be contacted at 230 E. Grand Ave., Rahway, N.J. 07065. It is hoped that a true east-west competition could be developed and although competitive skateboarding seems to be unrealistic, a U.S.A. skateboard exhibition team could be developed for Moscow 1980 Olympics.

Think About It.

Riding your board down a ski area or in a dirt board park. Flying off of mogols, doing bank shots and 360s while controlling the board in the air with Go For It Aerial Freestyle Bindings.

You're no longer restricted to pavement or slow speeds of small wheels. When on pavement the Dirt board is the hottest thing on four wheels, and hangs in corners like a road racer. On dirt its like a dirt bike, drifting in turns and flying off of jumps. Price $150.00 specify 30" or 35" length.

ZZZ WHEELS DO MUCH MORE FOR YOU THAN JUST ROLL

- WHEN you pump, Z wheels spring and flex, giving you real action and speed.
- Z Wheels DOUBLE the P.S.I. on the ground giving a 75 pound rider the gripping advantage of a 150 pound rider.
- Z Wheels go faster because of less ground friction.
- Z Wheels give your board a lower center of gravity.

Go For It aerial Freestyle bindings allow riders to firmly attach their feet to the skateboard by exerting horizontal pressure against the bindings. Instand release is accomplished by simply relaxing horizontal pressure and stepping from the board. A pad is held to the binder with Velcro and serves to cushion the riders foot, plus hold the binder in a vertical position to easy access.

With the pad attached to the binder it may be stood on and will spring again to a vertical position when the foot is removed. When the pads are not in use they are attached to velcro holders on the underside of the board. The binders then will remain flat on the board and may be stood on without difficulty. The bindings are constructed of aircraft aluminum with gold anodized finish.

FREE SKATE L.A.

After skateboarding for 14 years, my freedom is in jeopardy. The Los Angeles City Council is considering an ordinance that would outlaw skateboarding as a public nuisance.

I have started a petition that I am going to present to the City Council at the time of the first reading of the ordinance to try and stop it cold. I am not wealthy, but I have lots of time and energy to devote to this project. But I need your help. If you would lend a hand in any of the following ways I, and countless others, would sincerely appreciate it:

I have already received support from Ampul and several other places such as Val Surf. If you are interested in supporting this effort, please contact me at 213/467-1997 or writing to FreeSkate L.A., 1260 North Las Palmas, Box H, Los Angeles, Ca., 90038. Thank you, Debbie Bennett.

CARLSBAD SKATEPARK OPENING DRAMATIC NEW SKATING SURFACES

Skateboarding takes on a new dimension in early October when new skating surfaces open at the first skatepark ever built, Carlsbad Skatepark, east of Carlsbad.

At the same time, the skatepark will take on a new name. It will now be known as SPARKS/Carlsbad.

The park's original builders and designers, Jack Graham and John O'Malley, are designing the expansion of the facility from a half-acre to some six acres of usable space.

The present skating area is still open to skateboarders while construction is underway.

Other new features at the park will be a village area including concession stands and a pro shop, enlarged parking, and a full-time skatepatrol. Headed by professional skateboarder Ronald Wroble, the patrol will supply safety tips, park supervision, and instruction. Lessons will be available for beginners, intermediate, and advanced skaters, and skateboards can be rented at the park.

First new area to open will be the "Mogul Maze," a unique surface offering an endless variety of skateboarding paths through large mounds, snake runs and bowls. SPARKS/Carlsbad will open the "Contest Bowl," three interlocked bowls similar to swimming pools with deep rounded vertical surfaces.

Later the "Infinity Bowl" will open to skaters. This large, deep triangular bowl with an island in the center is like an endless pipe designed for safe but exciting carving and kick-turning. Present new facilities at SPARKS/Carlsbad will be completed when the village opens later in October.

Ultimately the park will be enlarged to about 15 acres of usable area. When completed, the enlargements will raise the park's daily capacity from about 500 skaters a day to over 1,000 per day.

Safety is a major consideration in skateboarding even though it is rated by the Federal Consumer Product Safety Commission as one of the safest sports. Skateparks are even safer than street and sidewalk skating because the skating surface is designed for the sport and because protective safety equipment is required by all skaters at SPARKS/Carlsbad and is available for rent at the entry gate.

The park is located on Palomar Airport Road, eight miles east of Interstate Highway 5. Admission is $3 for an all day skate.

SKATER'S OPINION:

The first day was a nightmare. Funny buildings which had few exits, endless corridors, and a room number system even Einstein would have felt uneasy with. There were strange people who, we were told, were the "messengers of civilized behavior" — teachers. They loomed above us like giant smokestacks. Promising a good time while making knots in our stomachs that made Twist-o-Flex look obsolete.

Those of us who found our second class were beginning to calm down to a state of semi-hysteria. The hardier manage to survive the morning and are released for lunch. Those with naive stomachs made a mad dash for the cafeteria. The others stagger far enough to collapse on the grass for a moment of bliss.

There are no thoughts of having fun. The day holds enough impending doom to avoid adding other risks. Our breath barely caught that voice of doom as it summons us back to its chambers.

While teachers continue to assure us that this painful process is for the benefit of our future lives, we wonder if there is a future after today. We manage to slip from one class to another and then, to total amazement, are told that the day is over and we can go home. We're not too sure if this is just an attempt to shoot us for escaping but without hesitating we decide to chance it and make a mad dash for the door. No sirens? No gunfire? But instead, something worse: "See you tomorrow!"

Dear Di,
Please print my letter because I'm sure I speak for a lot of skateboarders. My question is: why does it take to be a professional skateboarder nowadays, since skateboards are better?
Dear Jeffery,

A professional skateboarder is anyone who has (1) received any cash for riding a skateboard. This includes even a $5 cash prize, advertising payments, and getting paid for giving someone advice based on your experience gained from riding a skateboard. Or, (2), won any prizes that are worth more than $200, for first place, $100 for second place, or $50 for third place. If you want to compete with the pros but keep your amateur status there are some things you can do. (a) Donate the money or prize to a non-profit charity; and get it in writing that you do so; (b) put it in writing before the event that you will not accept the money or prize; or (c) it can be counted as reimbursement for expenses if there are records to back it up.

These definitions are from the I.S.A. They arrived at this standard after investigating A.A.U. policies and the Olympic standards. It is a big move to go professional these days. With the skateboard demo team probably going to Russia for the Olympics in 1978 it may be too good a trip to miss. Also, if you want to compete in high school and college sports, being pro in skateboarding may blow it for you. There are lots of things to consider before changing your competition status. Talk to your parents, a coach at school, and a few pros before you decide for yourself.

Di
Dear Di,
The NSR seems to be getting better by leaps and bounds. Please send us an advertising rate card as soon as you can. Thanks very much. Keep up your excellent work, we appreciate it!

PLANS FOR 1978 SKATEPARK CONFERENCE SET

"How to share in the profits of the coming boom in Skateparks" is the theme of the 1978 Skatepark Conference and Exposition set for December 9 and 10 in San Diego, California.

The program, featuring speakers from all sections of the burgeoning industry, will cover a wide spectrum of subjects including: opportunities in skatepark operation, zoning and other similar requirements, financing and construction, insurance and other liability protection

Dear Friends:
I have recently formed a corporation aimed at the "teen" market. Among the several ventures anticipated, the major one should be of interest to your company. This would be THE SKATE-SURF-SUN-SKI JOURNAL, a magazine for the active young person. The journal will be run by young people in conjunction with my own business and publishing enterprise. Also aiding will be a list of other qualified advisors.

THE SKATE-SURF-SUN-SKI JOURNAL will contain articles on each area, featuring one each issue. An example being, Hot Skateboarders, Hot Audiences (an article exploring the audience participation aspect of the sport of skateboarding). Of course, news, reports from major areas, update information about 'who's hot', competition events (past and upcoming), profiles, tests of equipment, unique views of particular points of interest, columns, and the usual journalistic necessities will be integral parts of magazine.

Following are some 'how's and why's' of the journal:

I am corporate head of a computerized printing and publishing business, Computer Graphics of Fort Lauderdale, as well as general manager of GDGIII. I have a 14 year-old brother-in-law living with my family. He was looking for after school and summer work. He expressed desire for something creative and exciting. I quizzed him on his interests, they were, basically the foundation for the journal. We have now organized other qualified young people and some older business people and have met, traded ideas and excitement (examples; I am becoming a 41 year-old skateboarder and my brother-in-law is becoming a 14 year-old business executive), and we are on the move.

The magazine will eventually be slick from cover to cover, although initially it may only have a slick 4-color cover with newsprint interior. Circulation details are being worked out now.

THE SKATE-SURF-SUN-SKI JOURNAL hopes to join you in the adventure of public awareness and/or participation in these great sports. Please respond to our request for your ideas, comments, interest, etc., in our upcoming publication.
